This beautiful rebuilt Fiat 700 has been bought by Robert Vandaele from France, in barn condition. Standard, the tractor had cast wheels but these have been changed in "kit" to wheels with rubber tires.

The tractor is rebuilt in "museum and rally " condition, good working order and complete.

With the rubber tires, the tractor can be used for road trips.

The Fiat 700 was an answer from Fiat on the successful Fordson, built in Bologna, in the north of Italy.

It was smaller and lighter, and more competitive than the previous 702 / 703

The Fiat 700 tractor was the first tractor to be assembled with the same chassis used as wheeled tractor or crawler tractor (see 700C) The tractor has been built in different versions in Italy between 1926 and 1942.
